This volume arose out of a series of lectures that the author gave during a trip to North America in the spring of 2014, thanks to an invitation by Duke University professor and scholar Carlos Rojas, who is also the author's English translator. During that trip, the author visited twelve universities, including Duke, Harvard, Yale, and Stanford, where his lectures were recorded and subsequently transcribed and edited. The first essay in this volume was initially delivered as the author's acceptance speech upon being awarded the Franz Kafka Prize in October 2014. The author is grateful to Duke University for helping to coordinate his 2014 lecture tour and to Duke University Press for making this volume available to an English-language readership.
